The Intersection of Food, Technology & Mobility

Food On Demand publishes information and news at the intersection of Food, Technology & Mobility. We cover topics such as restaurant meal delivery, prepared meals in supermarkets, catering, subscription meal kits, institutional dining, plus the industries that support all these different businesses from packaging to technology, legal matters and financial issues.

FOD publishes a monthly newsletter, maintains an online blog, hosts webinars and produces an annual industry conference. All of this is designed to bring together key players in the industry and promote education, growth and deals from within the community.

The Food On Demand team has 30 years of experience in hosting successful events. We have built long-term relationships with restaurant operators, dealmakers, technology companies and industry experts from all over the country. We specialize in putting together events that educate our attendees, plus help to facilitate our sponsors in generating business at the events.

As a sponsor of the Food On Demand conference you will receive amazing exposure and access to attendees. We will promote your brand leading up to and during the event—this is your opportunity to position yourself as a leader in the Food On Demand universe!
